18 BURNED TO DEATH IN WRECK

Terrible Railroad Wreck in Michigan Results in Great Loss of Life. Almost a Score Burn to Death. Twelve Fatally Injured.

(Special to The Times)

Lansing, Michigan, Aug. 25.—In a rear end collision on the Grand Trunk railroad this morning near Durand, forty five miles from here eighteen people were burned to a crisp and twelve fatally injured.

The accident which occurred through the alleged carelessness of one of the crews was one of the worst in the history of railroading in the western central part of the country. A train bound for Battle Creek had trouble and had stopped to repair some minor damage. They failed to send back a flagman and when the express came rushing along it crashed into the rear end of the other passenger train.

The express piled up several Pullmans on the track and they soon caught fire. Before the occupants could get out the cars were blazing fiercely and eighteen of the passengers burned to death pinned under the wreckage or in the cars where they could not escape. Twelve others received fatal injuries.

Hurry calls were sent to Durand, a village of less than 3,000 people and first aid rendered until the injured could be taken to larger cities. Lansing was called upon for help and sent trains with physicians and nurses. It is expected that all of the twelve who did not die in the wreck will live but a short time making a total death toll of thirty.

The wrecked Pullmans in which the victims were riding were consumed in the fire with several other cars.

ARRESTED LARGE BAND OF GYPSIES

The arrest of a band of gypsies by Sheriff Fissel on Wednesday evening filled the southwest corner of the Square with a big throng of people while the six wagons and thirty occupants belonging to the outfit added to the general scene of activity when they arrived before the office of Squire Harnish.

The band claimed no particular place of residence, but from the argument they put up before the Justice of the Peace, they might easily be assigned to the State of Missouri.

From the story given by the captain of the band they come from in Tampa Florida. They are on the way south having come from New York by way of Easton, Reading, York, Hanover and Littlestown.

Early in the evening Sheriff Fissel was notified of their camp site along Willoughby Run just off the Fairfield Road. Mr. J. O. Currens living on the farm adjoining the creek advised them to move on but they refused and as a result fell into the clutches of the law.

The entire band was arrested and brought into town. After a somewhat lengthy argument as to whether or not they were telling fortunes and asking for money, the Justice on advice of District Attorney Neely imposed a fine of $50 and costs. They refused to pay the fine and decided to go with the Sheriff, who was waiting outside with a detail of deputies. About this time the band got together for a little conference. No one understood what was going on but from the close harmony the curious crowd thought that there would soon be some excitement.

The consultation, however, was not to offer resistance. They decided to take out a county license which under the recent act governing nomads or wandering bands such as gypsies, is $50 for each county in the State. A fine of $10.00 was imposed and costs amounting to $18 dollars. Now they have the privilege of remaining in the county for one year and as they were leaving remarked that they would get it back.

While this same band was camping in the vicinity of Hanover one of the nomads named S. Clair Hollinger out of ten dollars. She was arrested and the case amicably settled by the defendant returning the ten dollars and paying the costs.

GRAUSTARK

Baker and Castle, the managers of "Graustark," have given the play a magnificent production, the locale lending itself readily to picturesque settings. Mr. James W. Castle had charge of the production and the same thoroughness of detail is observed that was so noticeable in all of the F. C. Whitney productions of which he had charge. To those who have read the book "Graustark," it will prove the dramatic treat of the year. To those who haven't read it the play will prove so interesting that it is safe to say they will patronize the book store the next morning. "Graustark," will be presented at the Walter Theatre Friday, August 26.

The two left to continue their vacation trip together after the ceremony. The bride is a widow and is some eleven years her husband's senior. He is twenty six. He is a boilermaker; she was a dress-maker.

AUTOMOBILE RUN HERE NEXT WEEK

Motor Club of Harrisburg will have Sociability Run to Gettysburg. To Have Secret Checking Stations. Next Friday.

The sociability run of the Motor Club of Harrisburg to Gettysburg will take place on Friday, September 2. The route will extend from Harrisburg to Gettysburg via Mechanicsburg and thence out York street to Shepherdstown, Dillsburg, York Springs and Gettysburg.

The distance will be forty miles officially and the cars will run at a schedule of fifteen miles per hour. On the morning of the run the secretary will appoint two checkers and start out in advance of the tour. Somewhere between Harrisburg and Gettysburg along the lines of the route these checkers will be dropped.

One of them might be hidden in a cornfield, another might be located at one of the small towns with his watchful eye hidden from view of the passing cars. There will be three prizes in gold for the three winning cars.

Ten dollars for the first prize, five for the second and two and a half dollars for the third. These prizes will go to the three cars who pass the two secret checking stations and reach Gettysburg at a time nearest to the set schedule of fifteen miles per hour.

This feature of the run will be intensely interesting. Contestants will figure out their time at each town or possible checking station for the entire trip before leaving Harrisburg. At fifteen miles per hour the trip will consume just two hours and forty minutes to Gettysburg.

A car that figures his touring at fifteen miles going through the small towns where he might think there is a hidden checker, is liable to hit it up above the schedule between towns and just at a place where one of the checkers might be on the watch.

After reaching Gettysburg the time of each car will be taken and after receiving the checking time of the two secret checkers the winners will receive their prizes. A tour of the battlefield will be made.

HUMAN HEARTS

Successful in its tenth season can be said of few plays but it can be said truthfully of "Human Hearts." A drama which provides healthful recreation for the public and which seems to instruct while appearing in the form of amusement, is a boon to any community. So many questionable forms of amusement are thrust upon the public, the young and old alike find much in this beautiful living story to think over and enjoy long afterwards. Rich in incident, in its variety of characters, in its stage settings, it is one of the few attractions of great merit on the road. The spectator is carried into the delightful atmosphere of life in the Hills of Arkansas. The trouble which falls upon the simple folk of the Logan Farm, reminds one of the line—"The Trail of the Serpent." Wait. The author has struck many true notes in this play and the well chosen cast blend their harmonies with fine effect. It is with pleasure that Manager Walter announces "Human Hearts."

A Coin Worth Millions.

Somewhere in the world—possibly among the relics kept by some lover of the great Napoleon—there is a fortune, perhaps unsuspected. Among the coins Napoleon had minted were some millions of five franc pieces, and he determined to popularize these in an extraordinary way. In one of the coins, folded to a tiny size, was inclosed a note signed by Napoleon and promising the sum of 5,000,000 francs to the holder of that particular coin. Nat-

HOKE SMITH WINS FIGHT

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 25.—Former Governor Hoke Smith, of Atlanta, probably will be the next governor of Georgia.

He won at the Democratic primary over Governor Joseph M. Brown, who two years ago defeated Smith after he had dismissed Brown from the railroad committee.

One of Georgia's oldest congressmen in point of service, Leonidas F. Livingston, was defeated for renomination in a campaign in which his alleged support of the so-called Cannon rules at the organization of the house last winter was made a principal issue in the campaign.

Smith's victory was a decisive one. He won by a large majority over Brown, who was defeated by a large majority.

A Grand Rout.

It is not always the largest force who can make the greatest disturbance and cause the most confusion. In his "Hunting Grounds of the Great West" Richard Irving Dodge tells of a little incident of the Mexican war which proves that it is quality, not quantity, which is most effective.

While General Taylor's little army was marching from Corpus Christi to Matamoros a soldier of the flank of the column fired at a bull. The animal charged, and the soldier, taking to his heels, ran into the column. The bull, undaunted by the number of the enemy, followed him headlong, scattering several regiments like chaff, and finally escaped unhurt, having demoralized and put to flight an army which a few days after covered itself with glory by victoriously encountering five times its number of human enemies.

MOTHER'S VISIT.

The Old Lady Meant Well, but She Got a Severe Shock.

An old fashioned woman from the country recently packed some fried chicken, bread and doughnuts in a market basket and went to see her daughter, who lives in a big city. She was scandalized when the family stayed up till 11 o'clock and decided that she wouldn't tell pa about it when she wrote home next day. "He might think we have fallen into evil ways," she said to herself as she was going off to sleep.

She awoke at her usual time, 4 o'clock, and the house seemed strangely quiet. "Town folks do get lazy," she thought, "and they probably don't get up till 5." She dressed and went downstairs and watched the clock until 5. Not a sound. Then she waited till 6, and at 7, between hunger and alarm, she was almost crazed. "They're been murdered in their beds!" she yelled at 8 o'clock from the front steps. And soon the house was filled with people rushing in to see what had happened.

The family were surprised and indignant when police, market gardeners, newsboys, etc., rushed into their bedrooms and woke them up. And this explains why the old fashioned woman came home that day. "I never expected," she sobbed to pa, "that any girl would talk to her ma as Jane talked to me."—Arlington Globe.

T. R. DEFIES HIS FOES

Says "They Will Have All the Fight They Want."

REPLIES TO WM. BARNES

Declares He Will Make Speech in New York Republican Convention as Originally Planned.

Herkimer, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Colonel Roosevelt at the farm of his nephew, Theodore Douglas Robinson, near Jordanville, N. Y., read in the newspapers the statement made by William Barnes, Jr. In that statement Barnes had left no doubt that he would continue to fight Colonel Roosevelt.

"Well, then," said the colonel, when questioned about the statement, "they will have all the fight they want. I am only going to that convention because I feel that the public interest—the interest of the people of the state of New York—demands that the Republican party be given a chance to stand squarely and uncompromisingly for clean, decent, honest politics."

"I go up to that convention to make my speech exactly as I had originally planned it, and while I hope there will be enough good sense to prevent any one opposing the principles for which I stand, yet if they do oppose them, it is their own affair. As far as I am concerned the issue shall be absolutely clean cut."

There was a lot of talk concerning possibilities of happenings in the Republican camp following President Taft's letter to Mr. Griscom and Colonel Roosevelt's declaration of war to the hit with the Old Guard.

One of the possibilities receiving the most consideration was that of the calling of a special meeting of the state committee to undo what was done last week when Vice President Sherman was endorsed as temporary chairman of the state committee and Colonel Roosevelt received a jolt from the bosses.

SHERMAN WILL QUIT

Vice President Will Never Be Candidate For Office Again.

Watertown, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Unless Vice President James S. Sherman changes his mind he will never be a candidate for a political office. This construction was a statement he made here.

Vice President Sherman repeatedly refused to say one word concerning politics to the numerous reporters questioning him. But it was learned that he did say to some of the incorporators of the Northern New York Trust company, in which he is a heavy stockholder, and came here on business pertaining to the company, that when he retired from the office which he now holds that he would quit politics for good. He declared emphatically that his statement was no joke, but that he meant exactly what he said.

LOUDENSLAGER SEES TAFT

Says Visit Has Nothing to Do With the New York Political Fight.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 25.—Representative H. C. Loudenslager, of New Jersey, secretary of the Republican congressional committee, spent two hours with President Taft and afterward accompanied him out on board the Mayflower, where the president officiated at the presentation of cups to the winners of the Sonder class races with the Spaniards.

Mr. Loudenslager was to have accompanied Vice President Sherman to Beverly last Wednesday, but was delayed in New York because of illness. He declared that his visit was solely for the purpose of talking over the plans for the congressional campaign, and both Mr. Loudenslager and the officials of the executive office were anxious to have it understood that the call had nothing whatever to do with the New York situation. Mr. Loudenslager is an intimate friend both of Vice President Sherman and of Speaker Cannon.

GAYNOR'S WOUND HEALS

Physicians Cease to Issue Bulletins on the Mayor's Condition.

New York, Aug. 25.—The bullet wound in Mayor Gaynor's neck has healed on the outside, and the irritation of the throat caused by granulation on the inside has ceased. The mayor ate heartily and will go back to his regular diet of three meals a day. He was allowed to take a little exercise in the hospital corridors.

No bulletins are now issued and issued only the hospital physicians are in attendance.

DOLLIVER TALKS

Iowa Senator Makes Prophecies of Next Congress.

Aurora, Ill., Aug. 25.—Senator Dolliver, of Iowa, declared to an audience of 2000 at the Aurora Chautauqua that the next congress "would have men who vote for laws that their communities sought, not what they got word to vote for from Rhode Island or Cincinnati."

"The next congress will see a group of men who will be elected for what they themselves represent, and not what party. This group will vote for measures that they have promised their communities to vote for. They will not try to swindle the people they represent," said the speaker.

Continuing, he declared that the time had come, as the recent votes showed, when the public will have the tariff laws written in the halls of congress, and not in the offices of the interests which would be benefited.

BOY'S BODY FOUND CUT TO PIECES

Italian's Little Son Had Been Missing Since Friday.

Kingston, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Peter, the four-year-old son of Frank Fabian, an Italian, disappeared from his home at Portville, a few miles north of Kingston, on Friday last.

Hundreds of Italians searched for the boy until Wednesday, when his body was found, cut to pieces, alongside an outhouse on an adjoining neighbor's property.

The father went to New York on Sunday and consulted a fortune teller, and when he returned Monday night the father stated that the fortune teller had said the boy would return within three days.

The opinion now prevails that the boy was kidnapped, and when the kidnapper learned of what the fortune teller had told the father he killed the child and placed the body where it was found. Searchers had passed the place where the body was found the day before, but the body was not there then.

JAPAN GRABS KOREA

Will Formally Take Over the Hermit Kingdom About Aug. 30.

Tokio, Japan, Aug. 25.—The text of the convention under which Korea is annexed to Japan, was communicated to the representatives of the powers.

The document which, according to now established facts, was signed on Aug. 22, will be effective when officially promulgated. This will take place, according to some of the ministers, Aug. 29 or Aug. 30, when the independent existence of the Hermit Kingdom, the struggle for whose control started the Russo-Japanese war, will cease.

The Japanese government, which has a large number of representatives already in Korea, will be prepared to take over the machinery of administration in Korea without any delay. Considerable uneasiness is reported at Seoul, owing to the circulation of threats of disorder following the annexation.

These emanate, according to the view taken here, from malcontents who have not received the consideration which they think their due in the provision made by the convention for the future of the Korean royal family, nobles and officials. Sporadic outbreaks in protest against the absorption of Korea by Japan are anticipated, but serious rioting or even widespread objection from the Koreans to the annexation is not expected.

In 1881 three streams burst forth from the sides of this mountain, and one of them came within three-quarters of a mile of Hilo, the chief city of the island. There have been several outbreaks of Kilauea in the last hundred years. In 1840 there was a brilliant eruption of lava, the light of which, it was said, could be seen a hundred miles away, while at the distance of forty miles one could read print at midnight.

114 RANGERS DEAD IN FIRES

Government Supervisor Issues a Statement.

SNOW AND RAIN FALLS

Flames Have Been Checked in Some Districts and Search for Missing Men Begins.

Wallace, Idaho, Aug. 25.—The death roll from the great forest fires which are devastating Montana, Idaho and Washington is growing hourly.

United States Forest Supervisor W. R. Weigle issued a statement saying that 114 of his forest employees have been killed in the fires and that 74 others are missing.

The dead are distributed as follows: At Grand Forks, 30; Boulder Creek, 1; Avery, 12; Big Creek, 15; Placer Creek, 6; Pine Creek, 2; Setser Creek, 20; Bullion Mine, 8; Rock Creek, 20; missing, 74.

Some of these dead have been previously reported. If those missing are dead, the Coeur d'Alene national forest will have suffered a loss of 188 men.

These figures are likely to be increased when the death roll of those fighting the flames, but not enrolled in the government service, is counted. Four colored soldiers of the Twenty-fifth infantry are now known to be lost, while ten Japanese railroad laborers lost their lives near Avery.

Snow and Rain Falling.

It is now believed that the worst is over, as a heavy fall of snow is reported in the mountains of Montana, extending over an area of 100 square miles, and it has done much towards bringing the fires under control.

Rains are also reported over a portion of the pan handle section of Idaho and in eastern Washington, and if the storm continues a few hours longer it will undoubtedly quench the flames over all the fire zone.

At many points in the burned district men who have been fighting the flames at great risk to their lives, and for whose safety grave fears were felt, are straggling into the settlement, scorched and exhausted, but thankful that they escaped with their lives. It is believed that many of the rangers now unaccounted for will ultimately be found safe, as these experienced men, unless caught in a trap, know well how to escape danger in river or lake when surrounded by fire.

The Fires Still Spreading.

Everywhere, except near the towns, the fires are still spreading. Many companies of United States and state troops are on the way to the scene.

Stories of the blinding and burning of fire fighters have made it difficult to induce men to go into the blazing woods.

Reports from fires on the Middle Fork and in the Elk City region say that the wind blew a gale all Tuesday and the ground gained in the lull in the tempest of Monday night has been lost.

In the Elk City district the situation is steadily growing worse. The town is considered safe, but the surrounding country will be devastated.

The American river district is now ablaze from mouth to source, fifteen miles, and the flames have crossed both Little and Big Elk creeks.

Little Campbell gulch is ablaze for miles. A number of quartz mills have been destroyed and the fires on Buffalo creek, which were supposed to be out, are active again.

Smoke in Elk City is so dense that there is little difference between midnight and noon, and lamps burn continuously in stores and dwellings.

SHAVE REVEALS HIS SON

Barber Did Not Know Who Strange Customer Was.

York, Pa., Aug. 25.—Daniel S. Mc Lane, a barber of this city, shaved his son, James, without having known who he was.

The son had been in the west for a number of years and also in the Philippine Islands. He returned home for a visit and walked into his father's shop for a shave.

The boy's disguise was so perfect that the father shaved him without knowing that it was his son until after the work was completed. It then dawned upon him that he had seen the customer before. There was a happy ending to the incident.

Girl Shot by Street Car.

New York, Aug. 25.—The placing of a revolver cartridge on the track of the surface car line of the Third Avenue railroad at Twenty-third street caused serious injury to Miss Mary Kenny, nineteen years old, who was crossing the avenue at that point. The cartridge was exploded by contact of the car wheel and the bullet struck her in the right temple. The girl was taken to the hospital, where her condition is critical.

Fatally Hurt in Auto Accident.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 25.—Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Worth were fatally hurt and Mr. and Mrs. Perry Becker and their son Robert were seriously injured when an automobile in which they were riding plunged over an embankment.

Where the lava flowed through the forest it has left curious relics in lava arches, bridges and great vases. These were formed by the lava filling itself about some lofty tree trunk, burning away the wood within and killing the upper part of the tree. In the course of time seeds were deposited in the open top, filled with decaying bark, until now there is a gigantic lava vase, holding ferns and flowers and vines.—Exchange.

ANCIENT YUCATAN.

Its Mysterious Ruins Once the Scene of Human Sacrifices.

It was Chichen-Itza, Chichen Itza the magnificent, the Taj Mahal of Central America—and the building we were gazing on was the most wonderful of the ruined group.

As we looked upon it in the moonlight we could not help feeling how awe inspiring this colossal temple, rearing itself 120 feet into the air, must have been to the ancients. On the top of the pyramid still stand the crumbling ruins of a temple. It is reached by a stairway on each side of its four sides, having 120 steps apiece, and contains three rooms, the doorposts of which are carved with the figures of priests, except the one facing eastward, which has large pillars carved into the forms of serpents. The heads of these are turned so that they lie flat upon the top of the pyramid, their eye sockets still bearing traces of the rich green jade that once filled them.

As we sat we pictured to ourselves the strange and barbaric scenes that had here been enacted, for if legends are to be believed it was on these fluted serpents' heads that the tyrant priests of the Itzas, majestic in their bejeweled and befeathered robes, tore out the palpitating hearts of their sacrificial victims after slicing open the breasts with a silver knife.

These sacrifices were probably performed in view of thousands of worshippers of the sun deity congregated on the plains below, the heart after it was torn from the membranes being burned as an offering in the inner holy of holies, while the body of the victim rolled down the stone steps to be sacramentally eaten by the people.—World Wide Magazine.

A Shrewd American Girl

By HELOISE BRAYTON

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Miss Christine Atherton, an English girl whose birth had been of ordinary parents, was a guest at the seat of the Duke of Brentnord. Miss Atherton was in love with the duke's oldest son and heir, the Marquis of Hiddleton.

Among the guests at the duke's residence, Slapper Grange, was a Kansas girl, Miss Edith Brown, the daughter of one who if he had been titled would have been called the prince of packers. Miss Brown was expected to inherit a large fortune, and this was the reason for her being at Slapper Grange, for the Brentnords were not overburdened with ready cash, and the marquis was on the lookout for a wealthy American wife.

Now, Miss Brown had no more reverence for a title than for a membership of a sewing society. She was one of the kind to see through a millstone, and it was plain to her that the marquis wanted her for her money, and Miss Atherton wanted the marquis for himself.

"So long as I don't want him myself," mused Miss Brown, "why shouldn't I help this young English girl to get him?"

Now, there was a skeleton in the Brentnord closet. The duke, who was an old man, was a kleptomaniac. He was not allowed when in the city to go into the shops without a footman to follow him and pay for what he stole. When the old gentleman appropriated an article the footman would step up to the clerk behind the counter from which it was taken and say: "Is grace is shopping today, 'Ow much for the 'and mirror 'e took?" "I see," the clerk would reply. "That one is three and six."

This would be followed up by other purchases acquired in the same way and duly paid for by the footman. There was nothing upon which the marquis was so sensitive as this mania of his father. He had made every effort to avoid the disgrace, even to an attempt to shut his father up, but as kleptomaniacs is not a form of insanity that warrants confining a person in bedlam the duke maintained his liberty.

One morning Miss Brown remained in her room when the others were down to breakfast and, being alone on the floor, went into Miss Atherton's room, took all the jewelry the poor girl had, carried it to the duke's apartment and slipped it into the pocket of a coat she found hanging in a closet. Then she went downstairs to breakfast.

After the meal Miss Brown kept Miss Atherton under observation so that she might be the first to meet the English girl after the discovery of the loss. Just before luncheon Miss Atherton came out of her room with a terror stricken look on her face. Miss Brown was in the hall.

"My jewels!" exclaimed Miss Atherton.

"What of 'em?" asked Miss Brown, putting a finger on her lip to enjoin caution.

"They're gone."

"Hil! The duke? You know his falling?"

"I've heard of it."

"Don't say a word about it. The marquis would never forgive you."

"Do you really think it best?"

"I do."

"And I must lose the gems?"

"Never mind that; they will come back to you."

That night at dinner Miss Atherton appeared without a particle of jewelry. The marquis noticed it, but made no comment. After dinner he joined Miss Atherton on the terrace. He never noticed the absence of anything belonging to any of his guests without dredging lest his father had purloined it.

"Christine," he said, "why did you leave off your jewels today at dinner?"

"Oh, they're so insignificant," she said, "compared with what the other ladies wear."

"Miss Brown, for instance."

"Hers are very handsome."

"Umph! These Americans don't know when or where to load up with stones."

When on future occasions the marquis noticed that Miss Atherton still refrained from wearing her jewels he wondered. Then one day Miss Brown spoke to him of the omission.

"She doesn't wear them," said the marquis, "because she's ashamed of them."

"Nonsense," replied Miss Brown. "That's not her reason. She has too much kindness in her to hurt your feelings by giving you the true one."

"Good gracious! You don't mean they have been stolen?"

"I do."

"And the thief?"

"Search your father's pockets."

The marquis made the search and returned the jewels. The incident decided him on marrying for love or money. He proposed to Miss Atherton, much touched that she had preferred to lose her finery to accusing his father.

"As for that American girl," he added, "she had the indelicacy common among her countrymen. She did not hesitate to remind me that my father is a thief."

Miss Brown left the grange covered with jewels, but when she got in a train she put them in her satchel.

KILLS BALD EAGLE

A bald eagle, measuring five feet from tip to tip, was shot by Harry Tanger, of near Mt. Holly Springs. The great bird was seen hovering over Mr. Tanger's fields and barnyard for several hours before it swooped close enough to permit a shot at it. The farmer was under the impression that he had killed a giant hawk, but upon exhibiting it to ornithologists, he was informed that it was a bald eagle and a particularly fine specimen. It was supposed that the species had been extinct in this region for many years.

WIGS AND BEARDS.

At the restoration wigs began to be more generally worn, and in Queen Anne's reign they became the most costly item of gentlemen's wardrobe. Sir Richard Steele's "full buttoned black wig" cost 50 guineas (about $255), and the fashion became so cumbersome that Colley Cibber when playing "The Fool of Fashion" to satirize the styles introduced a wig of flax so large that it was brought on the stage in a sedan chair. As a matter of fact, the stagecoach lines were compelled to restrict the length of wig boxes to three feet.

Some seem as they were starched and fine.
Like to the bristles of an angry swine,
And some, to set their love's desire on edge,
Are cut and pruned like a quail set hedge:
Some like a spade, some like a fork, some square,
Some round, some mowed like stubble,
Some quite bare, some with a tuft, some sharp stiletto fashioned, dagger-like
That may in whispering a man's eye out-pique;
Some like a hammer cut or Roman T;
These beards extravagant reformed must be;
Some, with the quadrate, some triangle fashion.
Some circular, some oval in translation;
Some perpendicular in longitude,
Some like a thicket for their crassitude;
Thus height, depth, breadth, trifurca, square, oval, round,
And rules geometrical in beards abound.
—National Magazine.

The Cat and the Tail.

Once upon a time a cat who prided herself on her wit and wisdom was prowling about the barn in search of food and saw a tail protruding from a hole.

"There is the conclusion of a rat," she said.

Then she crept stealthily toward it until within striking distance, when she made a jump and reached it with her claws. Alas, it was not the appendage of a rat, but the tail of a snake, who immediately turned and gave her a mortal bite.

Moral.—It is dangerous to jump at conclusions.

Hotel Insurance Against Robbery.

At a well known hotel in Venice it is the practice to charge guests 25 centimes per diem for insurance against fire and robbery, the amount covered for this premium being 1,500 francs. This is a very convenient arrangement, as robbery is far from uncommon in Italy.—London Truth.

A Pugilistic Feat.

"Clancy, who give yez th' black eye yez have?"
"If I knew I'd lick 'im."
"Sure, an' don't yez know?"
"How c'd I know? Me back was turned at th' toime."—Toledo Blade.
